Tribute Paid Memory Of University Founder

Lectures Suspended In Recognition of James McGill's Birthday

TOMORROW the whole University, both past and present, will assemble to honour the man who "long and deservedly filled the most elevated position in this community," and who was the founder and first sponsor of the University which bears his name. For the sixth of October, 1744, was the birthday of James McGill, great soldier, great citizen, great man.

For many years it has been the practice of McGill to reserve this day for a brief recognition of her founder; for a pause in the progress of the University, to pay homage to him, and instill into the newcomers to her threshold the feeling of reverent pride which her sons possess.

Band Will Play

This year, as in many past, not only the students of the University, but the representatives of the regiment which had him as their colonel will be present at the tomb before the Arts Building on the one hundred and eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth. For James McGill, more rightly regarded by us as a patron of Culture, was for some time in command of the First Battalion of Montreal Militia, from whom are descended the Canadian Grenadier Guards of today. Therefore, a guard of two men from the regiment will be stationed at the Founder's Tomb at the head of the Campus tomorrow, and a further guard of honour in full-dress uniform will parade from four to fifteen in the afternoon; while the band of the Grenadier Guards will be stationed nearby and will play selections.

The Annual Fall Convocation will, as is customary, take place on the same day, and as this part of the proceedings will begin at 12 o'clock, lectures from 12 to one will be cancelled to enable the students to attend and take their part in the events of the day. At the Convocation the degrees and Diplomas will be awarded and Sir Arthur Currie will deliver his Founder's Day Address.

Students Invited

In consequence of the special significance of the Convocation to all students, including the Freshman Class, as many as possible are requested to come to the most important ceremony of the college year, and the friends of the graduating year are cordially invited.

There are a large number of degrees to be presented this year, and those who are graduating will assemble at the east end of the hall of the Arts Building at 11.45 a.m., wearing academic dress, preparatory to their entrance to Moyse Hall.

Principal's Comment

A fitting comment on the purpose of tomorrow's assembly appears in the Principal's speech, delivered on this occasion in 1924:

"Our Founder . . . would say: 'Love the University I left to you and labour for it as I laboured in my troubled time for its advancement; then love your country, my adopted Canada, for which your brothers died; . . . for while you guard the fame of the college torch lighted, there need be no fear of darkness or discord in your beloved land.'"

The following diplomas and degrees were granted at a special meeting of the Corporation of McGill University, held in the Faculty Room of the Arts Building, yesterday morning, and will be awarded and conferred at the Annual Fall Convocation to be held in Moyse Hall tomorrow at noon.

Passed for the degree of B.A.:—Atto, Clayton Howard, Montreal; Hewitt, Dorothy Alberta, Toronto, Ont., (in absentia); Lessor, Edward Alfred, Outremont, Que.; Mackenzie, Archibald Franklin, Montreal, (in absentia); Rabiner, Ida Rita, Montreal; Wolfson, Charles, Montreal.

Passed for the degree of B.Sc.:—Lyon, Harold Percy, Montreal; McHugh, Holle Edward, Montreal.

Passed for the degree of B.Com.:—Anderson, Frederick William Venning, Outremont, Que.; Barclay, William Anderson, Montreal; Charbonneau, Joseph Pierre, Ottawa, Ont.; Church, Harry Noel, Ottawa, Ont., (in absentia); Dodd, John Gordon, Jr., Westmount, Que.; Freedman, Bertram Jacob, Westmount, Que.; Gage, John Edward, Winnipeg, Man., (in absentia); Kronick, Samuel Abraham, Ottawa, Ont.; Langstaff, Thomas Albert Kidd, Kemptville, Ont.; Mitchell, Frank Murray, Westmount, Que.; Ornstein, Joseph Frank, Outremont, Que.; St. Germain, Ralph, Ottawa, Ont.; Webster, Richard Campbell, Westmount, Que.

BACHELOR OF ENGINEERING
Benny, Walter Robert, (Civil), Smith's Falls, Ont.; Cameron, Alex.

Lectures Cancelled From Noon To One

To allow all students and staff to attend the annual fall convocation tomorrow at noon in Moyse Hall all lectures will be cancelled between noon and one o'clock. Afternoon lectures will not be cancelled.

Enthusiasm Begins As Players Gather

Hewitt Elected Secretary And Leatham Chairman Of Workshop Plays

MORE MEN WANTED

First Production Probably About Middle Of Next Month

A record attendance at the opening meeting of the Player's Club held yesterday afternoon in the Grill Room of the Union augured well for the success of the Drama at McGill. The number present approximated the hundred mark, of which a large proportion was from the Freshette Ranks, proving that Thespis has not lost his appeal to the feminine mind in these days of materialism.

F. T. O'Reilly Hewitt and Ronald Leatham were elected by acclamation to the vacant position of Secretary of the Club and Chairman of the Workshop plays respectively. Despite the apparent interest shown there are still plenty of openings for enthusiastic supporters, especially in the more technical branches such as scenery and costumes, the president, Fraser Macquodale, pointed out at the commencement.

Play Chosen

The first major production of the year will take place on about the tenth of November it was announced, the play chosen pending the approval of the Dean by one by James Elroy Flecker entitled "Hassan." This has for its setting the ancient city of Bagdad at the time of the Arabian Nights episodes and combines a large and varied cast with a background and story of general interest.

Casting starts tonight at seven o'clock and will continue every evening until Friday.

Men Needed

An urgent plea was voiced for more men as the coming play has several male characters. The main need, however, is for workers on scenery and stage hands. Any wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity to pick up much actual experience in play production are asked to interview H. Stikeman in the Club room in the Union or to get in touch with any members of the executive.

Miss Mackenzie is in charge of costumes, and any who are interested in this work will be warmly welcomed.

In the course of the proceedings the Honorary President, Professor T. W. L.

Medical Convention Will Be Held Here

Sixteen Hundred Delegates Expected To Attend

For the first time in its history, the American College of Physicians will hold its 17th annual convention in Montreal, at the Windsor Hotel, February 6th-10th, 1933. Dr. J. O. Meakins, Professor and Director of Medicine at McGill, who has been appointed general chairman, will be in charge of all general arrangements. This organization has been formed in order to enable men interested in the different branches of Medicine such as: psychiatry, pathology, tuberculosis and public health to come together and discuss on common ground the various problems related to these various fields of practice.

The American College of Physicians was founded in 1915, and has, during the course of its existence, afforded beneficial services to all internists. It has become international in its scope, and it is estimated that there will be over 1,600 delegates in attendance, representing Canadian and American practitioners.

Higher Personalities Necessary To Help Group Life Prosper

W. H. Leatham Addresses Presbyterian College Last Night

SIR ARTHUR SPEAKS

City, College And Church Constitute Forms Of Corporate Life

"No form of the Corporate Life, whether it is that of the city, university, or church, can prosper without the efforts of higher or consecrated personalities," claimed W. H. Leatham at the formal opening of the Presbyterian College for this season held last night in the David Morrice Hall. The subject of the lecture delivered by Mr. Leatham, well-known scholar and lecturer, was "Some aspects of the Corporate Life." Opening his remarks by defining the term, "Corporate Life," the speaker stressed the fact that the importance of such a form of existence lay not in the fact that we must live as one whole body or unit, but that this body must continually be inspired to a higher and better living. Although the corporate life has manifested itself in many distinct and different ways in past history, there are three definite forms of it which seem to have had the greatest influence on both the past and our own civilization.

Seek Cooperative Feeling

The city, the first form of the Corporate Life, has been an important factor in the promotion of this kind of living. It is easy to enumerate the disappointments and failures of the city life, but none of these offset advantageous effects of the group life. Ancient Greece was not only an example of secure political organization, but was in itself a living organism, yet it failed to produce those consecrated personalities to promote the group life. "It is that feeling for the whole which we are seeking, for that is the secret of the Corporate Life."

The second illustration concerns that of the life of the University. The common quest for knowledge is a unifying force in strengthening the group life. Here, a common spirit and understanding pervades which binds all different groups and sets into a single unit. However, the university, just as the city, has need of stronger personalities to intensify this corporate life, in order that it may be a spirit of life, and not of mere existence. The speaker then mentioned the fact that many of the Theological Colleges from different countries are producing such men who will lead the course of modern society.

Present Conditions In Germany To Be Shown By Student

Schafhausen Addresses League of Nations Club Tonight

This evening at 8.15 the League of Nations Club will recommence its activities in Strathcona Hall. The subject of discussion for the evening will be provided by a talk on present-day conditions in Germany by Henry Schafhausen, who has just returned from studying in that country during the past year.

The executive wish to emphasize that the League of Nations Club in spite of its somewhat misleading name is by no means a foreign students' club, but is a society composed of all the students either men or women who are interested in the discussion of foreign affairs in all parts of the world. The wealth of material offered the members for discussion in this session has seldom been surpassed in recent years and it is hoped that more students will manifest interest in this club than has been the case in the more recent past.

The business of the evening, which is fairly large, includes among other things the election of three new officers. As this can only be done satisfactorily if there is a representative number of members present, all those who participated in the activities of the club in former years are asked to be present as well as any newcomers who think that they might be interested in the work the club is carrying on. The time is tonight at 8.15; the place, Strathcona Hall.

Brilliant Graduate Wins Coveted Post In N. Y. University

Word has been received that Dr. Abraham Edel, McGill graduate is to occupy the post of lecturer in Philosophy at the College of the City of New York this year.

Dr. Edel received his B. A. degree at McGill in 1927, at the age of 18, and took his M. A. in Classics in the next year. He continued his post-graduate work at Oxford under a Moyse Travelling Scholarship, and afterwards at Columbia University. Last year he was an instructor at Barnard College.

Now, at the age of 23, his long line of scholastic success has been climaxed with this appointment. He will, as well, be a special lecturer at Rand School in the same city.

Initial Parade Held By McGill C.O.T.C.

Record Breaking Turnout As Unit Comes Of Age

ISSUE NEW UNIFORMS

Officers Say New Recruits Of Very High Standard

The McGill C.O.T.C. opened the 1932-33 season last night at the Armoury of the Canadian Grenadier Guards, at Fletchers Field. This marked the beginning of the 21st year of its existence and the coming of age of this organization. Colonel Buchanan is again in command. A large turnout of 100 men set a new post-war record. Recruiting has been going on since last week and the officers believe the recruits this year are of an exceptionally high standard. Classes are in progress and the new men are being passed into platoons as soon as possible.

Several changes have been made this year, among which are new uniforms; all men now wear open-necked tunics, such as are worn by crabs military colleges in England and by officers. Each man is assigned a rifle and is responsible for its condition throughout the year. This year the corps consists only of infantry companies, the cavalry having been abolished.

Hold Smoker Soon

The C.O.T.C. smoker will be held next week in the Grill of the Union. The date has not yet been set but it will probably be on the evening of Thursday the 13th. At this meeting efficiency prizes, etc. will be awarded, and there will be several speakers.

The first week-end campaign will probably be held before the end of the month. Weekly parades will be held every Tuesday evening in the Armoury of the Canadian Grenadier Guards instead of in the Black Watch Armoury as in former years.

Oldest C.O.T.C.

The McGill Canadian Officers' Training Corps, this year celebrating its 21st year of existence, lays claim to the distinction of being the oldest outside of the United Kingdom, and

Newman Club Meets Next Sun. Morning

All Catholic Students At McGill Invited To Be Present

On Sunday morning, October 9, the first regular monthly meeting and Mass of the McGill Newman Club will be held in Congress Hall, which is next to St. Patrick's Church on Dorchester Street West. Following Mass, which will commence at 9.45 o'clock, a buffet breakfast will be served.

The Newman Club is the official Catholic Club at McGill and as such extends a welcome to all Catholic students at the University and wishes them to take this as an invitation and be present at its regular monthly meeting and Mass on Sunday morning. All students who are at McGill for the first time are specially invited to attend as it will give them an excellent opportunity of meeting many of their fellow collegians.

At the meeting, the program of the Newman Club for the present year will be outlined. This program includes social, intellectual, and religious activities. Announcement will also be made of an informal social gathering which will be held during the latter part of the month.

Collard And Painter Gain Vacated Posts By Acclamation

Debating Union And Engineering Positions Go Uncontested

TO HOLD ELECTION

Anglin And Wayland Nominated As Arts Representative On Council

By the zero hour of two o'clock yesterday, in answer to the call for nominations to three vacant offices, four names had been proposed, resulting in the acclamation of Edmund Collard, Law '33, as President of the McGill Debating Union, and of Gilbert Painter, Eng. '33, as the Engineering representative to the Student's Executives Council. The sole election contest takes place in the Arts faculty, where James P. Anglin and Charles Wayland have been nominated as representatives to the Student's Council.

Inasmuch as Collard was chosen, last Spring, as Vice-President of the Debating Union, that post is now left vacant. The Vice-President is elected by the Undergraduates, and the acclamation of Collard will necessitate the calling of a new election.

Experienced Head

The position of head of the Debating Union was made vacant by the withdrawal of Ken Baker, who is pursuing his studies at Paris. In engineering, Painter succeeds A. Deane Nesbitt because of the latter's election to the presidency of the Student's Council. The election in Arts is accounted for by the removal of Ronald Denton to Medicine.

The new President of the Debating Union has, during the past few years, participated in many University debating activities. Collard has been prominent as member of many a McGill Debating team and as a speaker at Mock Parliaments. Gilbert Painter will be remembered as having been active in Athletics, playing on the Hockey teams and being McGill's representative in the shot put event.

Elections Soon

Arts Undergrads will go to the polls on Wednesday, October 12, to cast their vote for either Anglin or Wayland. Arrangements for the election of a Vice-President of the Debating Union have not as yet been made, but it is expected that the voting date will be announced within the next few days.

The official nomination lists follow: We, the undersigned, hereby nominate Edmund Collard to the office of President of the McGill Debating Union:

R. Wilson Becket, R. H. Montgomery, S. D. McMorran, Harold B. Lande, E. O. Freedman, Robert B. Calhoun, A. M. Watt, F. W. Park, George R. W. Owen, A. M. Minnion, James P. Anglin.

First Rehearsal Of Concert Orchestra To Be Held Tonight

Jules Lapointe, President, Invites Attendance Of Newcomers

Tonight at eight o'clock, the first rehearsal of the newly-formed McGill Concert Orchestra will be held in the grill room of the McGill Union. At that time the election of the society officers will be held. Jules Lapointe has already been appointed by the Musicians' Association as President, but several other vacancies on the Executive Board remain to be filled.

The McGill Concert Orchestra is the newest society at the University, and was formed only this fall. The society wishes to have a successful year, and the Executive Board extends a hearty invitation to all freshmen and undergraduates to attend the opening rehearsal.

The purpose of the orchestra is to furnish music for the performances given by the various college associations. The society has arranged to co-operate with the Musicians' Association and the Operatic and Choral Society. Mr. Irwin Cooper, the prospective conductor of the orchestra, has decided to commence rehearsals with simple, appealing music which will make the rehearsals interesting to everyone. Already several musicians from the McGill Conservatorium of Music have joined the society. However, enthusiasm, rather than talent, is needed, and all newcomers are cordially invited.

Dr. Nancy Swann Publishes Chinese Woman's Biography

Dr. Nancy Lee Swann, specialist in Chinese studies at the Gest Chinese Research Library, has written the first biographical study of a Chinese woman to be published in any language. Dr. Swann has entitled her book "Pan Cheo, the Foremost Woman Scholar of China." The volume has been published by the American Historical Association. It is highly regarded as a contribution to the knowledge of the history and ancient usages of the Chinese people.

The subject of the book was one of the earliest advocates for the education of women. Her influence as an essayist, philosopher and teacher was widespread during the period in which she lived. This new publication throws considerable light upon the period in which her work was accomplished.

Year's Activities Of Choral Group Start

Discussion And Formulation Of Plans Mark Opening Meeting

INTEREST EVIDENCED

Addresses Delivered By Nesbitt, Ritchie, Mr. Cooper And Shaw

Dean Nesbitt, President of the Students' Society, Arthur Ritchie, President of the McGill Operatic and Choral Society, Mr. Irwin Cooper, Musical Director and Robert Shaw, President of the Musical Association, were the principal speakers at the McGill Choral and Operatic Society meeting held in the Union last night. Plans for the forthcoming year were discussed, new members welcomed, and the meeting was concluded by an informal dance.

Activities of the "past year" were outlined to the new members of the Club. In his opening speech, the President was enthusiastic about the plans which will be carried out this season. The record attendance at the meeting evidenced the interest shown by the members.

Commence Immediately

Emphasizing the need for immediate activity, if the forthcoming production by the Society is to be a success, Mr. Irwin Cooper stated the work would commence immediately provided the proper cooperation is shown. Since the next musical opera by Gilbert and Sullivan, "The Yeoman of the Guard" requires a large number of male voices, Mr. Cooper was especially pleased at the record attendance of men.

Dean Nesbitt then outlined the student relationship to the Choral and Operatic Society remarking that the Club's activities have always been looked forward to and appreciated by them.

M'Master Students Abide By Tradition

Sophomores Again Apply Tar And Feather Coating To Frosh

Hamilton, Ont., Oct. 4. — University of Toronto heads may have abolished wild initiation parties but the grand old tradition is still in swing at McMaster University.

This year's activities were started by the application of tar and feathers to the reluctant person of Moses Appel, Ottawa, formerly a reporter of the Ottawa Citizen.

Yesterday all freshmen turned out for their annual picnic but before Appel could take one step out of his room he was captured by second year men and bound with rope. Due to the sophomores' forgetful minds, however, he was not gagged and soon his yelling brought aid from the freshmen.

With renewed spirit and union, they set out on their way to the picnic grounds . . . but did not get further than the bus terminal when they were again attacked. Here a wild free-for-all took place and aroused Hamilton's peaceful downtown district. Finally when both attackers and attacked reached the latter's destination, a new war started over the lunch baskets. In the end, the freshmen kept the food. Hurrah for the freshmen!

Freshmen Feted At Annual Celebration In Ballroom Tonight

Songs, Yells, Music And Speeches To Make Up Program

SHAG TO SPEAK

Sir Arthur Currie And Athletic Coaches To Speak

McGill spirit and real college atmosphere will be the keynote of the Annual Freshman Smoker to be held in the Union Ballroom tonight at eight o'clock. As this is probably the only real opportunity the newcomers have of getting acquainted with the upperclassmen, free smokes will be only the ice-breaker to an evening of real pleasure.

Interesting Program

Songs, music, and speeches will be but a part of the varied program which has been thought up by the committee in charge. Sir Arthur Currie will be the guest speaker of the evening, and others, including several athletic coaches and Deane Nesbitt, President of the Students' Council, will also address the gathering.

Coach "Shag" Shaughnessy of the Rugby Squad has expressed his willingness to say a few words on prospects for the season in hand. Don Young, Captain of the Football Team for a second term will also give a brief talk. Dr. Bobby Bell, Mentor of McGill Intercollegiate Hockey Championship Team, has promised to be on hand also and will furnish advance news of hockey prospects.

Speeches To Be Brief

These speeches will, however, occupy but a small part of the evening's program, the committee claims, and the entertainment side of the smoker will be more than ever stressed.

Freshmen and others intending to attend are advised, by those in charge to come early to insure themselves of obtaining smokes, the supply of which is limited. All are asked, as well, to bring their handbooks in order to be able to join in all the songs and college yells.

The Annual Smoker has been in the past the first effort by upperclassmen to imbue Freshmen with that McGill enthusiasm and spirit which are necessary characteristics of the man who has his college at heart. It is necessary then, the committee pointed out, that every available Freshman be on hand at this, the first gathering of the college year so that a favorable impression may be created by their attendance.

Discovery Made By Noted McGill Doctor

New Method For Photographing Liver And Spleen By X-Ray

Dr. R. Gottlieb, of McGill, has established the fact that X-ray photographs of the liver and spleen can be secured without injury to either of these organs. The treatment consists of injecting a colloidal solution of thorium dioxide, which penetrates the liver and spleen. Thorium, not being penetrable by X-rays, gives a shadow which can be easily photographed. The use of thorium has hitherto been limited because of fear of danger to the patient.

Dr. Gottlieb is a graduate of McGill and a research assistant and hematologist at the university clinic. The work was done under the supervision of Dr. J. C. McKinnis, director of the department of Medicine at the McGill University Clinic. The doctor used himself as the first human candidate for the experiment. Fourteen patients have since been treated with complete success at the Royal Victoria Hospital.

By this experiment a new field is opened for the treatment of pulmonary diseases. Dr. Gottlieb is the author of several papers on medical research.

All Students To Be Medically Examined

Second year students in Engineering and Medicine are especially requested to appear for medical examination between 9 and 12, 2 and 5 today as this will be the last time the examination will be available during these hours.

Students in first and second year Medicine, Arts, Science, Commerce and Law who have not yet appeared are requested to do so as soon as possible as a fine of five or ten dollars will be imposed upon those who fail to comply before the end of the month.

Founder's Day

ONE hundred and eighty-eight years ago, on the sixth day of October, James McGill was born. Tomorrow the university that bears his name will celebrate his birth, and gather together its sons and daughters so they may pay homage to his memory. Founder's Day stands pre-eminent in our calendar, a day when we allow ourselves the luxury of reminiscence and of contemplation, the luxury of pride in a glorious and progressive Past.

It is no idle event we commemorate. To the generosity and foresight of James McGill the existence of this university is due. Not until eight years after his death was opposition overcome and the college founded. The early days were precarious ones, but the legacy soon proved itself to be organic and alive. Today the name of McGill is known throughout the world, and his wise and liberal bequest has placed him among the immortals.

There should be little need to implore the students of McGill to be present at tomorrow's anniversary ceremony. Nothing can be more inappropriate than a forced and unwilling attendance. Those who deem it futile had far better be absent. But there must be many who are ready to do honour to the Founder, ready to celebrate the birth of one who did not write his good deeds in water. The newcomers who do not attend this gathering can scarcely be counted as anxious to become part of that which makes up McGill University.

Our Concert Orchestra

THE youngest of a huge family of campus organizations will take nourishment tonight at eight o'clock when the McGill Concert Orchestra hold its first rehearsal in the Union Grill Room. May the kind deity who draws large crowds to the support of existing clubs look kindly upon this nursing.

A college orchestra has long been a necessity at McGill. It should prove of invaluable help to the Red and White Review and the Operatic and Choral society who have hitherto been faced each year with the problem of orchestral organization.

There should be ample talent at McGill to make this orchestra a worth-while institution. It had the advantage of possessing an experienced conductor. With hard work and good material it may add yet another organization to our imposing list.

Gates

THE old riddle "When is a gate not a gate?" which was brightly answered "When it's ajar" is being applied here at McGill in all its force. Apparently a gate here is not a gate unless it is kept permanently closed. The only entrances to McGill which are not kept closed are those where there are no gates.

In years gone by there were three entrances to McGill off University Street, one off Sherbrooke and one off MacTavish. Now the latter alone remains open to automobile traffic. First the Milton Street entrance was closed. The object ostensibly was to prevent traffic which had no business in the grounds from taking a short cut through them. It worked to a certain extent, but some still cut out on to University Street by the roadway at the north end of the Biological Building. Now we are told this too is to be blocked. That leaves one entrance open on the east side—the one by the Medical Building. Whether it will be left open or not remains to be seen.

Then there is the Roddick gates. They were built at considerable expense and for some years were left open for use. Now however they are apparently destined to remain closed—unless perhaps they may be opened once a year to let the Convocation procession through. As yet the MacTavish Street entrance is open, — there are no gates there. The professors (who are the only people allowed to park in the grounds anyway) may thank their stars that there are no gates here or it would be impossible for them to get in the grounds at all.

But this is not all. A fence has recently been built around the field at the Stadium to keep the crowds from rushing across the field from the rush seats to the reserved seats. In the south side of it are two gates—one narrow and the other about 15 feet wide. Presumably these were placed there so that people sitting in the reserved seats could leave the Stadium by the south entrance after the game, instead of climbing hundreds of steps to the top of the stand and then walking all the way round to their cars, parked on Shuter Street, Prince Arthur, and other streets in the vicinity. But are these gates opened? No. After the Westward game it was announced that people in the reserved seats would have to leave by the back of the Stadium as "there was no way out through the fence to the south." Apparently these gates, too, are destined to remain perpetual shut.

We may well hope that no more gates will be built at McGill, as the idea seems to be that, once a gate is built, it is a sinful waste of money not to use it, and it is therefore kept closed—in perpetuity.

PANEM ET CIRCENSES

NO ARMY WAS EVER so clamorous as these idle citizens. They choked the city to its walls; aye, even Rome's seven hills are insufficient. "Go to the farms!—Never! We are city folk, and in the city we stay! What care we if we have no work for us,—we must live, and we must have pleasure,—give us bread and circuses!"

The call was echoed throughout the length and breadth of the Roman Empire. "Panem et Circenses" was the Roman's greeting to his senator. —Just as "Straighten this fine for me" is our aldermanic "Good morning." And like all popular opinions in a real democratic world, bread and circuses were granted.

Full bellies thronged to the magnificent Fora, and gloated over the mortal combats of gladiators and beasts, and the feats of strength and skill of the heroes. What mattered a single life, when a thousand were made more enjoyable by the means wrought for the former's extinction? Moralists there must have been aplenty, but the mob had a ready answer. "We care not, we must be amused!" And at that cry, a dozen stalwart sacrifices stood forth, ready afresh to pour their blood on the altar, that they might help appease the wrath of the great God, Ennui.

Two thousand years less a century or so have elapsed since that call for "Panem et Circenses." The mob has not gone,—it is still clamouring; this time it cries, "Give us bread!"—nothing more. Does that satisfy it? Has it no place for pleasure in this serious world? Has civilization actually retracted? No! These are signs of advance. Our civilization is measured by the number of repressions and inhibitions that we entertain.

The world has not yet advanced to that stage where it can do without food; the latter is still a physical necessity without which there would be no need for the higher attractions of life. Entertainment is mental nourishment and must therefore be handled with the greatest of care and discretion. It would never do to clamour for such food; it must come naturally, as if by inspiration.

In order that we may understand the complete individuality of entertainment, our governments have steadfastly refused to follow the Roman example of sponsoring the spectacles. They not only refuse to subsidize our efforts in this direction, but even place stumbling blocks in our way, forbidding the continuance of many of the conventions that made the pageants of our forefathers so entrancing.

It is the gladiator, once again, who does the work for us. He answers our call, but by this time we have learnt not to care about his sacrifices, though perhaps we would like to see the audit of his gains. His arena is once again, amidst flamboyant architecture, but his repertoire has increased in size tremendously. By means of swiftly changing, declamatory photographs, he takes us through the tale of a single incident or an entire life. In fewer scenes with living characters,—a harder task, but more appealing to the intellect,—he does the very same, painting meanwhile a more vivid picture. Lastly, by means of intonations, coloured tones,—music, the highest of them all, he plays, still upon the same theme,—life and its emotions, but with what different results!

The pleasure giving arts have many devotees, both gladiators and spectators, and no matter how small a group may be, there are sure to be some among them. Here at McGill, with the opportunities that are present, one can always rely upon a fairly constant flow of both types. The Player's Club, the Choral Society, the Red and White Revue, they have never lacked for performers, though it has not been unknown for audiences to be somewhat lacking in numbers. All in all, the demand for entertainment exists, the means of meeting it is likewise not wanting, and by an adjustment of these two factors we can be pleasurably entertained. We shall see anon whether this be true or not.

THERE IS A GROUP of gladiators which goes by the name of the Montreal Repertory Theatre. They have aims for a season of work that, as intentions, are impressive, but unlike new year motives, they have everything necessary with which to carry them through.

MRT in bold faced type greets the visitor to the studios which they have acquired for play production. Inside, one finds a group of enthusiasts in charge of operations, and it is they who are the reason for the belief that success is imminent. "For the Rep," is their reason for undertaking manifold duties beyond their ascribed positions, and if this means more than an ordinary day's work in one, then—there is the evening.

The MRT aims at establishing a producing centre for the drama, both French and English, music and the allied arts, and to foster Canadian talent in matters of playwriting as well as in those with which it is more intimately connected. It intends, moreover, to develop the initiative of its own producing group in a creative direction, thus permitting absolute freedom in interpretation and expression.

To help gather and train the actors and crews that are necessary for any polished production, the MRT is planning a service of Workshop plays, and in order to make these completely practice efforts, they will be open solely to the members. To this and the new studios will be most handy. These occupy a two storey building, the ground floor being occupied by the offices and reading room, and the upper by painting and costume departments, and a large open space, so admirably suited to these small plays, as if built expressly for the purpose. It appears about 20 feet wide, and at least 50 feet long. About 20 feet from one end of this hall is a segmental arch across the width of the room, forming a proscenium opening to what must inevitably be used as the stage.

Four productions at Moyses Hall are promised, and two at one of the regular theatre houses in the city. Exchange performances, such as brought the highly meritorious Ottawa Drama League here last year, will be continued. Of interest is the further announcement, that an attempt will be made to organize one or more music and dance recitals.

Membership appears to be of two general forms, the one by pecuniary means, and the second by hard work and endeavor. Both types of members are being welcomed, and since the merits of such affiliation is obvious, no more need be said of them. The first fruits of this season's efforts will be seen, when the MRT presents Bruno Frank's "Twelve Thousand" at Moyses Hall from October 12 to 15 inclusive.

MUSICALLY INCLINED STUDENTS have ample opportunity to give vent to their emotions, such as may have been pent up during the past summer, or prior to their advent to this enlightened school of the graces. There is the Choral Society, about which page I have told you as much as I can, likewise the band, and the Concert Orchestra; another opportunity is the Conservatorium Orchestra, which is being revived this year, and is open to all students, faculty notwithstanding, who possess sufficient ability to master the difficulties presented by the more serious of musical composition.

Your choice is ability-wide if your will is there. If the touch of an instrument (musical) draws no response from you, then you can at least sing in the "Yeomen of the Guard" choruses, remembering that fifty half-fair voices well controlled and directed can surpass half-a-dozen that are too good to need such ministrations. Then, if an instrument does appeal to you, and your practice has been none too extensive, the band will welcome you, give you instruction, and make you part of a group that has not yet failed to give a good impression at the annual December "Student's Concert."

If you are enterprising, and have some sort of instrumental training, not necessarily far-reaching, you can be among the pioneers of the Concert orchestra, and be one of those of whom the Daily will say:—

Student Orchestra
Gave Successful
First Performance.

And lastly, if you are fortunate enough, you shall be able to revel in the melodic beauties of Schubert and Mozart; the Majesty of Beethoven and Bach, and the fancy of Brahms and the subsequent moderns. You shall create these as a member of the Conservatorium Orchestra.

A Digest of Items and Opinions in Other College Papers

The Student Weekly of Franklin and Marshall College carries the statement that a neophyte of a University of Texas sorority stopped a street car, tied her shoelacing on the steps, thanked the conductor very kindly and returned to the chapter house.

According to the Thielensian the entire student body of the Mexican Indian Agricultural School went on strike as a protest against certain new methods of studies. Nothing daunted, the school immediately advertised for a new student body.

While co-eds at the University of Detroit have been refused permission to speak to male students, the Concordensis of Union College informs us that special telephone service between the men's and women's dormitories has been installed to promote more intimate social contact.

The Brown and White of Lehigh University carries an item to the effect that a Rhodes Scholar recently arrived in this country was reading a copy of Ballyhoo in his hotel lobby. He was observed to turn to his companion and remark, "I say, could you tell me who is this bally person, Elmer Zlich?"

Bad checks were passed around at the University of Missouri at the rate of seventy-five a day last year, say the Renaissance Polytechnic.

At the University of Berlin the students are permitted a period of six weeks in which to analyze and select their professors, according to the Upsala Gazette.

The Pennsylvania carries an advertisement in which a motion picture is claimed to be "so hot it will burn asbestos."

Indiana university co-eds are going Italian. The present trend is toward dark olive complexion, according to the opinion of a Bloomington beauty expert.

The Yale Daily News has discovered that in 1884 the football season at Yale netted the school $5500. Of this amount $25 was used for training expenses.

"SPEAKING OF THE WEATHER"

said

Mr. PICOBAC tilted his chair back against the wall.

"Weather is a great thing for the farmer," he said. "When it rains some folks blame it on the climate. I don't. I say let it rain. Rain gives the farmer a chance to do some fixin' up in his barn. Rain gives the woman a chance to get the boys to split her wood and fill the wood box. Rain fills up the cistern ...

"And," exclaimed Mr. Picobac, suddenly interrupting himself, "rain makes the young tobacco grow! The Burley Tobacco of good old Essex and good old Kent! I tell you we've got a lot to be thankful for in this part of the country—especially the weather. We get the sun and we get the rain."

Picobac Tobacco, the pick of the burley crop grown along the Lake Erie front, is a cool, mild, sweet smoke. Try it. On sale everywhere. And don't forget, you get more tobacco for your money ... Good for making cigarettes, too.

McGill Mittmen Held First Practice In M.H.S. Gymnasium

Many Of Last Year's Squad Expected Back This Season

Coach Light Will Welcome Any New Material To Practice

THE boxing squad held their first regular work-out for the season last night in the Montreal High School gym. Coach Bert Light was back at his old position as director of activities. The boys went through a light session of calisthenics followed by boxing for those who desired it. As most of the men are as yet in poor condition the coach advised that the early practices be spent in conditioning rather than any serious boxing. Coach Light also stated that as much road work as possible should be done since there is no better training to develop legs and wind.

The squad is without a manager. Ron Bruce who was selected for the position this year has not returned to college and no one has been appointed to fill his place. An announcement is expected shortly naming a man to the job.

Wilson Expected Back
Many of the veterans were not out to first practice but several are expected before long. Roger Wilson will likely be turning out as soon as the rugby season is over. At present he is holding down the middle wing position on the senior team and should be in the pink of condition when he makes his appearance.

Les MacGregor, last year's 175 lb. man, is another rugbist who will make an appearance later. After a year's experience MacGregor should develop rapidly this season. Tommy Southwood, who won the 112 lb. Intercollegiate wrestling crown has decided to swing over to boxing this year. If he shows the same skill in the boxing game as the wrestling he should be one of the outstanding contenders in the 115 lb. division.

Hugh MacGregor Back
Bercovitz, 112 lb. man last season, turned out yesterday. He is quite a bit heavier this year but hopes to be able to compete in the flyweight division. Bill Moran also showed up at the practice and stated he would return to the field a little later in the season. Hugh MacGregor, lightweight and the only Intercollegiate titleholder on the squad, is back at college and should be out shortly.

It is not certain whether Geo. Maughan will be able to turn out this year or not. Although he was defeated last year in the Intercollegiate, Maughan entered the Canadian trials for the Olympics and represented Canada at Los Angeles. His return would be a welcome to the coach.

Weights Changed
The weights have been changed this year for the Intercollegiate meet. Formerly the weights were 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 158, 175 and heavy; this year they will be 115, 125, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175 and heavy. This should be of advantage to the Red fighters for there has been a shortage in the lighter weights the past few years.

Coach Light stated that all newcomers will be welcomed at any of the practices. Freshmen are especially invited and everyone will be given an even chance to make the team. Eliminations are held previous to the Intercollegiate and finals are run off at the Interfaculty Meet to decide the team. Previous experience is not necessary and those who are new to the sport are assured that they will not be asked to fight against veterans until they are fully grounded in the fundamentals of the game.

Those turning out for the first time are reminded that they must bring their own equipment. Trunks, towel, and track shoes are all that is needed. Lockers will be assigned each man. Next practice will be held on Thursday at 5 o'clock in the M. H. S. gym. Now is the time to begin training.

GENIAL BERT LIGHT entertains high hopes for a strong team this season. "Prospects good," he says.

Ruggermen Practise On Thurs. Evening

First Meeting Held At Stadium Under Lights

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

THE FIRST full practice game of the English Rugger team will take place in the Molson Stadium on Thursday evening, when the Captain, Dudley Butterfield, will be able to try out all the available men in order to select the side for Saturday's match against Vickers. By arrangement with Major Forbes, the stadium has been engaged for the evening by the combined Soccer and Rugger clubs, who will hold their practices consecutively. The team will take the field against an M.A.A.A. fifteen about 8:00 p.m.

This will be the side's first opportunity this season of playing a practice game against a visiting club, and the facilities for substitution thus offered the selectors will be of great advantage. Confident of a really good spell on the field where an exhaustive trial will be made of his possibilities.

The value of this trial game against an experienced team will be especially noticeable forward, where the probable constitution of the McGill pack can be tried, and their binding and shoving power, which are always doubtful quantities at the beginning of the season, can be tested in opposition to a new scrum. Macdonald and Rabnett, who, at the pivot positions, have not yet had the chance to get the necessary understanding for first class half play, will find plenty of room for their tactical efforts against the M.A.A.A. Altogether the practice is expected to result in an appreciable improvement in team-play and co-ordination, besides settling the make-up of Saturday's fifteen.

As this will be the most important try-out for newcomers before the season officially opens, all those who are desirous of figuring in the team are urged to turn up under the Stadium lights at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday.

College Net Tourney Will Get Under Way Today At 12 O'clock

Most Of Seeded Players Will Be Seen In First Round

SEVERAL DRAW BYES

BARRING inclement weather, the annual McGill tennis tournament will commence today at noon. A large number of entries were turned in and some excellent matches are sure to be witnessed before the winner of the Martin trophy is declared. All of the first round matches will be run off today and the winners will advance into the second round along with those receiving byes in the opening round. Those whose names do not appear below have drawn byes.

The first four seeded players rank in the following order: Murray, no. 1; Watt, no. 2; Wilson, no. 3 and McMartin, no. 4. The other seeded players are Linton, Wiele and Farmer. All of these players may be seen in action this afternoon with the exception of Murray and McMartin, who drew byes.

Play Must Start on Time
In the event that weather conditions are unfavorable the matches will be played in the same order tomorrow. Competitors must be on hand and ready to play within 15 minutes of their scheduled time or they will be forced to default.

The draw for today, which is posted at the courts, is as follows:

- 12:00 Noon
E. A. Hankin vs. G. R. Forbes.
M. L. Watt vs. J. H. Legg.
S. N. E. vs. G. K. Reynolds.

A. W. Walker vs. G. Falls.

Interfaculty Rugby Begins Next Week

Games To Be Held On Campus At Four O'clock

INTERFACULTY rugby gets underway in the very near future. Competition is said to be keener than ever with some faculties reporting a goodly number of additions. The personnel of the various teams is still in the con-jugal stage, with many of last year's stalwarts rallying to the call of the faculty on the gridiron.

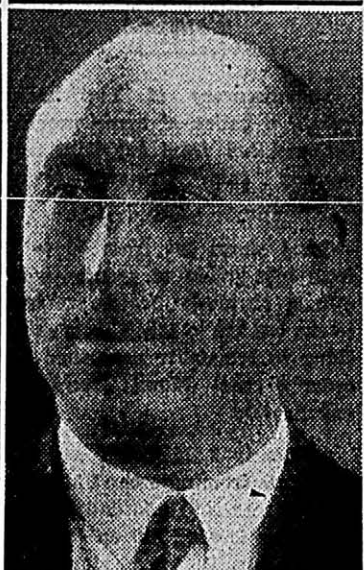

Previous years have seen the staunch representatives of the Medical Faculty in indisputable possession of the Interfaculty rugby championship; but this year the consensus of opinion is that there will be plenty of struggling to be done by the sawbones if they wish to retain their crown.

New Schedule Drawn
Alec Duff and Carl Jodecke, joint managers of the interfaculty loop, announce that a new schedule will be drawn up due to several difficulties that would arise if the old one were followed. This schedule should be ready in a few days and it will be published as soon as it is forthcoming. The season definitely starts on October 11th. The Graduate School may have to withdraw as considerable difficulty is being met with. In past years the Dentists have found it impossible to enter a team in the loop, and this year will see them absent again.

Games will commence at four o'clock with fifteen minutes allowed for the teams to appear. The campus will be the battle field. The minimum number of men on the opposing teams will be eight and a team is allowed to postpone only one game during the season. Any other difficulties that prop up will be straightened out as they arise. In the meantime it would not be amiss for a little practising.

McGill and Varsity Meet In Annual Classic Saturday

Rowing Head Who Moulded Local '8'

COACH URBAIN MOLMANS has shaped the McGill oarsmen into a well-organized, smoothly-working unit.

Red Soccermen In Match With R.V.H.

Will Test Team's Mettle For U.S. Excursion

LEAVES OCTOBER 11th

McGILL'S entry in the Intercollegiate Soccer League will get one of the most strenuous tests, when Coach Hay Finlay's players stack up tomorrow night against the Royal Victoria Hospital outfit—champions of the Mid-Week-League and finalists in the Charity Cup. The game will be the first on a doubleheader program under the Stadium floodlights, McGill's champion English Rugby outfit being down to match kicks with M.A.A.A.

In tomorrow night's exhibition, Coach Finlay expects to try out several new men under the fire. Among these will be several players from Macdonald's championship interfaculty team, notably Cooper, Taylor, and Flood. As these men showed promise in some of last year's games, it is quite possible that one or the other of them may make sufficient impression to gain one of the vacancies on the intercollegiate team.

Forwards Uncertain

As far as the final selection of the team is concerned, much will depend on the efforts of the forward line tonight and Saturday, when the last game before the U.S. trip is due to be played. Coach Finlay has definitely announced his defence for these games, which will consist of Ross in goal, and Reece, Harkness, and Jamikun for the full-back jobs. The half-line, too, is in good shape, consisting of Minnion at left, Owen at centre-half, and McBroom at right-half. Only the forwards have yet to be chosen; hence tomorrow's encounter against one of the ablest and best-conditioned teams in Montreal.

It is rumored that McGill will have a new man at the pivot position when the whistle blows for the kick-off at 7:00 p.m. tomorrow. This newcomer is a student in Law, named Hemans who played last season for a Montreal League club, and appeared to do well there. Many are expected out at the game to see how this new man fares. Thus far, Johnny Nolan has been playing at centre, and banging them in in fine style too; should Hemans prove his worth, however, Nolan will go back to his old position at inside right leaving the other inside job and the outside right place still to be decided. As far as the trip is concerned, Crabtree, regular outside right, is uncertain of going. This means finding another suitable wing man inside of a week, as the team leaves for West Point, Amherst and points west on Tuesday next, October 11th.

Sun Life On Saturday

Before leaving the team will engage in a final game on Saturday against the powerful Sun Life aggregation. This match is scheduled for the Upper Field, kick-off to be at 1:15 a.m., and has gained added significance in view of the fact that it has become an annual feature. Last year the Redmen held the strong Mid-Week League club in a pelted rain to a 0-0 draw, losing by 2-1 the year before. This year, Sun Life ended up well near the top, and it will be a feather in McGill's cap if it can subdue the Assurance team.

Local Crew Makes Final Preparations For Title Race

Takes Place Right After McGill-Western Rugby Game

THE ANNUAL Intercollegiate rowing classic between Toronto Varsity's stalwart crew and McGill's smooth-pulling galaxy will be held, as usual, on the Lachine Canal right after the finish of the Western-McGill football game, climaxing a day of athletic thrills. The race will be run from east to west, against a current of about a mile and a half, and the boats will cross the starting line at the foot of St. Remi St. Attention is called to the fact that the only way to see the race is by bus. Many have already secured their tickets and those who have not done so would do well to secure them at the earliest possible moment.

Reports from the inner sanctum are to the effect that the men are in tip top condition. The local oarsmen were defeated Saturday in the challenge race for the Mappin Trophy, emblematic of the provincial championship for eights. The Red crew made a gallant fight but outweighed twenty pounds to the man they did not have much of a chance in the long two mile grind. It, however, gave Coach Molmans an opportunity to see the boys competition before the Varsity-McGill race next Saturday on the Lachine Canal.

Had Little Chance

Added to the handicap in weight, a current which runs about one mile and a half an hour, and a light breeze made it a hard grind for the McGill boys. The Lachine crew are champions of the Eastern Rowing Association and have been undefeated this season. The Redmen were hardly conceded a chance to win but went down fighting gamely.

The race was advertised as a secret practice but quite a number of rowing fans solved the mystery and followed the crew along the canal banks. The time was slow with the Lachine boat negotiating the course in 12:43. The McGill crew were about ten lengths behind at the finish.

Varsity-Heavier Crew

McGill will now go ahead with their preparations for the Varsity meeting. They should make a much better showing against the Toronto eight, who are due in town on Thursday. The Torontoians started practice early in April and except for a month's lay-off in August, they have been practising faithfully. Under Coach Loudon's supervision, the rougher points in Varsity's crew have been polished off to a lustre. Their form is tip top and the boat is nicely balanced the men averaging at about one hundred and seventy pounds. This weight advantage means a considerable gain over the lighter McGill crew. It is especially significant owing to the fact that the race is being run against and not with the current. In the latter event, the lighter local eight would have a marked advantage over their opponents.

The crews will be as follows:
Toronto—Hughes cox, Gibson 1, Willis 2, Jackson 3, Skeay 4, Warren 5, Dowling 6, Annis 7, O'Flynn 8.
Toronto spare: Bradshaw.
McGill—Campbell cox, Gales 1, Elliot 2, Clarke 3, Jost 4, MacMurty 5, Blumer 6, Blakely 7, McQuaig 8.
McGill spares: Smith and McIntyre.

SPORTS NOTICES

Notices must be typewritten and left in the Sports Editor's basket before eight o'clock on the night previous to publication.

VACCINATION
First year women students must produce vaccination certificates at the time of their health examination.

MEDICAL EXAMINATIONS
All students must be medically examined before taking part in any sports.

TRACK
Track practices are held every afternoon, except Saturday, from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m., and Saturday morning from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Everyone is urged to turn out.

SOCCER
All new men from high school and all others interested are asked to turn out for practices which are held daily at 4:00 p.m. on the upper field at the Stadium.

HAIL SPORT KING OF THEE I SING

BY THE SPORTS EDITOR

WITH the facilities which the new gymnasium and swimming pool offer, Queen's is now in a position to develop a water polo squad which should be able to compete in the intercollegiate loop shortly. Coach Wright hopes to enter it in competition after Christmas. Practically all the players are newcomers and have to be taught the elements of the game; the team is playing under international rules. Whiteford, of Regina, is making excellent progress and because of his weight and speed will make a first class forward. Wilder, Low, and Wright were with the team last year, and everything points to success in the Kingstonians' new venture. And so, once more, the new gymnasium has justified its construction.

LAST year, when Western was at home to McGill in London, Ontario, Coach Joe Breen of the Mustangs went down on record as having stated that the winner of that game would come out ahead in the race for intercollegiate laurels. Western won, and sure enough, the Mustangs copped the title. This year, it seems as though the same will prevail. If the Londoners prove good enough to down the Redmen, they will undoubtedly be the team to beat. But right now, it looks like the McGillians will win the opener in Montreal, and the Varsity squad will down the Tricolor in Kingston, thus making it a race between McGill and Toronto. So Joe Breen had better stick strictly to football, and not do any forecasting this season.

FOOTBALL killed a score of youths last year in the United States, some of which were on college teams. But, at the end of the season public opinion ordained that the intercollegiate rules committee get together and take the danger out of the GAME SAFER. Several weeks ago, a group of coaches of which Fritz Crisler, new Princeton mentor was one, got together in New York for a study and interpretation of the new rules, and found that several changes could be made that would not injure the game at all, and would make it much safer for the players. It's about time something was done to stop the increasing number of football deaths below the border every fall.

RUMOR has it that Ralph St. Germain, former McGill hockey captain and footballer of note, will return to McGill for post graduate work in Commerce this year. It doesn't do to give too much credence to such vague comments, but the Saint has been putting in an appearance at the Stadium quite regularly lately, although of course he has not taken part in any workouts with the team. Most railbirds claim that he is just out for a workout, but some of the wise owls nod significantly. If the "Galloping Ghost" does return, he will greatly bolster Coach Shaughnessy's half line and punting department.

Golf And Sports Day
The annual golf match between the staff and the students will take place on Friday, October 14th, in the morning and the University Sports will be held in the afternoon. All lectures and laboratory periods are cancelled for that day.

Nature Of Literary Problems Presented

First Meeting Of Session Takes Place At Engineering Institute

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Rise And Growth Of Literature Traced By J. T. Farmer Last Night

A few general considerations of literature and its powers, its origin and growth, were presented to the St. James Literary Society, last night, by its president, J. T. Farmer, at the Engineering Institute. Mr. Farmer posed the provocative and ever-pertinent question, "What is literature?" This was the first meeting of the thirty-fifth session.

Mr. Farmer first pointed out that at the beginning of the session the members should re-examine the Society's ideals. From the title of the Society, one can readily judge that literature is their most important aim. But just what is literature? Literature includes all the objects of the club, hence it is important that one examines its essence.

Only a Means
Literature, unlike other subjects, is not a part of knowledge itself but only a means to knowledge. In the beginning, there were only ideas of tangible objects existing in men's minds. Gradually, vocal sounds, were adopted to represent ideas and to transmit them. Marks were then devised in order to establish permanence to fleeting thoughts.

After tangible objects were then represented, there arose words standing for thoughts and feelings—a vocabulary was developed. There is a fascination in following the course of thought, as literature developed. This explains the large following literature has. Language is a natural growth, with beauty and prejudices. Language is the materials from which literature is built up.

Obfuscation Attacked
Literature may be regarded from two points of view, from that of subject matter and that of style. A marked deficiency in one or the other means that an author is not a true literary artist. The purpose of any work is to enable the reader to follow the author. Mr. Farmer has no patience with obfuscation. Of course, certain subjects are so intangible that exact representation is difficult.

Sympathy of the reader is necessary. Form is an excellent determinant of worth and the excellence of style is best seen in religious literature. Repetition is very necessary to create effect. Rhythms and tonal quality distinguish poetry; rhythm appeals to the physical senses and reinforces its message.

Subtler Forms
Free verse does not deserve the name of verse. Yet our conventionalized form of poetry may be given over to more subtle forms. Poetry may and often does degenerate into verbal dexterity—a jingle. Mr. Farmer quoted Gray, and pointed out that, though one does not feel any wiser, one feels humbler and more sincere after reading him.

Form is the essence of literature, so much so that one must beware of making a fetish of it. In spoken literature, form is even more important than in written. Permanent literary work can be distinguished from the ephemeral in that it can bear analysis and cold calculation. However, in the long run subject is the determining factor.

Imagination Strong
The early mind of man had a very vivid imagination. Hence the earliest writings are full of fantastic forms given to inanimate objects. As one studies nature one finds proofs of the dictum "Truth is stranger than fiction." The story of science is as truly literary as the story of nature. We are always endeavoring to progress towards perfect knowledge. The literature of human relations is very interesting and bares the soul of the author to his readers.

Mr. Farmer said a few words on fiction. The duty of fiction is to provide recreation and in so far as it inspires the imagination, it is successful. One must weed out the good books from the vast amount of literary production which is going on today. Mr. Farmer also suggested that the members of the society could help young budding Canadian Authors. Artificial associations are of no help in this matter.

There is struggle in everything but man can help change to a small degree the deteriorating forces which surround him. From a physical point of view man is a very small creature in the scheme of the universe, however, spiritually he is supreme, and he should use his supremacy to fight pernicious and destructive forces. Literature can help in this.

Soph-Frosh Scraps Forbidden By Dean

First Time In History Initiation Abolished In Toronto

In spite of the custom of the annual blood-curdling initiations Dean Mitchell and the Faculty Council of the School of Practical Science of Toronto have forbidden initiation of freshmen.

As usual the schoolmen started this year with a lively battle in the Engineering building. The Dean after rather severe handling at one of the battles discouraged all plans for the forthcoming conflict. He declared that the Faculty Council would not tolerate the flare-up under any circumstances. It seems that for the first time in history, school freshmen will have to be recognized by their bewildered faces.

All traditions have been flung to the winds. Examination Hall may never again be a temporary madhouse.

The students are deeply concerned as to what will happen to the paddles, sackcloth, tunels, cod liver oil, ablutons, axle grease, gin pills, rotten tomatoes, eggs and other useful instruments of torture.

However a Soph-Frosh banquet has been arranged to calm the vengeance of the Sophomores and put them in to better spirits.

Students Asked To Bring In Old Books

Union Exchange Finds Big Demand For First Year Books

Record-breaking sales received added impetus today as the Book Exchange hailed with joy the advent of more urgently needed books. Sales for the day reached the $245 mark bringing the grand total to date to $1125. This falls but little short of the $1395 mark which was the result of last year's October and January sessions. With approximately a week more in which to further business, this year's effort should well exceed the old mark.

Students who have not as yet obtained books which they will need later on in this present term are advised by the executive to do so as soon as possible as the Exchange closes its portals to all comers next week.

There is still an unceasing demand for the following books. Students having these on hand and having a demand for ready cash are advised to bring them to the Exchange any time between nine and one, and two and five daily. The sooner of course, the better.

Nowlan's Analytical Geometry. Barnard and Child Algebra. Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme. Le Tour de Monde. Die Karavani. Murray's Calculus. Lamb's Calculus. Petrie's Latin Reader. Robinson's History. ## London Botanist To Speak On Evolution

Professor Ruggles Gates, professor of botany at King's College, University of London, will lecture today at two in Room 21 of the Biological Building on "The Species Problem."

The lecture will be delivered to graduates and the staff of McGill and MacDonald College, and to students of the University of Montreal. Following his lecture there will be a discussion in which a number of professors will ask questions concerning the subject.

The speaker will deal with the problems of the origin of the species from the viewpoint of the student of heredity and genetics. Professor Gates graduated from McGill with a B. Sc. degree in botany in 1906, and was appointed lecturer in botany at King's College of the University of London.

American Students Staunchly Support Soft Drink Craze

Stores Profit From Five-Cent Drinks On Indiana Campus

The discovery of how many 'cokes' a gallon of syrup provides for, resulted from inquiries concerning this 'five-cent drink' situation.

Some shops get from 60 to 75 from one gallon of syrup, while others, obviously Scotch, manage to eke out 110 to 125. This is something to remember next time you order a coke. (Moral: Don't get any Scotch.)

As nearly 2,375 'cokes' are sold daily around Indiana University campus means $118.75 daily, the 12 shops are making $10 on five-cent drinks only. In some stores the 'plain cokes' are the most in demand, while others show the preference for lemon flavor.

It would be a useful as well as time-filling occupation, if the students who wasted their time in the lab. would find out the nationality of our shop-keepers.

the only one to perpetuate in its name, revised recently by the Dominion Government, an overseas battalion, the 148th Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Following the suggestion made by Imperial officers in 1909, a committee, known as the Military Committee at McGill, held a mass meeting for students in November, 1912, where 125 students signified their intentions of joining provided that a corps was formed. The Great War, soon after, provided a great stimulation to the wish of the local corps, and on August 8, 1914, the McGill C.O.T.C. commenced training on the McGill Campus and soon after was followed by the formation of several companies under their well-guided officers.

Started In McCord Museum

The headquarters of the C.O.T.C. was established in the Joseph residence, now known as the McCord Museum, at McTavish and Sherbrooke streets. In this building, morning, noon and night, work was carried on incessantly in the preparation of officers.

In April of that year, two graduates of McGill, George C. MacDonald and Percival Molson suggested to the Minister of Militia and Defence the recruiting of an infantry company from university men. The former is today a "prominent" Montreal citizen, the latter fell during the war, leaving behind a glorious tradition. To McGill, Captain Molson left the money for the erection of the Stadium which now bears his name. Their advice was immediately accepted and soon after various companies represented our Alma Mater at the Front alongside the remainder of the Allies.

Colors In Library

Today the McGill C.O.T.C. has the distinction of perpetuating the name of this overseas battalion and officially the local corps is now the McGill University Contingent (148th Battalion, C.E.F.), Canadian Officers' Training Corps. It is believed that no other corps outside the United Kingdom can claim this honor. Today the colors of the 148th can be seen over the alcove in the Redpath Library.

The slump of interest which followed soon after the war was saved only through the renewed efforts of the officers in command. The then new principal of the University, Sir Arthur Currie, K.C.M.G., K.C.B., known better as a soldier than as an educationalist at the time, became honorary colonel. Sir Arthur always has maintained more than usual interest in the activities of the unit.

Quarters On University Street

Last year a splendid mess was opened, and today members of the unit have the use of very attractive, home-like quarters on University Street. Another improvement and a very popular one, too, among the cadets, is that beginning this month, all ranks will wear open-neck tunics just as are worn by the crack military colleges in England. This new uniform is expected to aid in the recruiting.

During the winter parades are held weekly and also lectures are given to prepare candidates for the War Office examinations. The week-end excursions up the Laurentians have also greatly augmented the enrollment of the recruits, as well as the tactic schemes with other companies. These are considered of immense value in the training of cadets in the handling of men.

The certificate examinations are held annually in the spring and countless Montrealeers have qualified for their captains' and lieutenants' certificates in the ranks of the C.O.T.C. The corp continues to attract McGill men even after their student days, and today all the officers are either members of the staff or graduates of the university.
